

Distinctive design

Striking design elements help this kitchen stand out from the crowd

So many modern kitchens look almost identical to each other, so when something fresh and different comes along, it really makes you sit up and take notice. This is one such kitchen.

Built by Better Bathrooms and Kitchens, the space is the most attractive feature of this new home. The owners wanted their new kitchen to be designed for practicality, but they also wanted it to reflect a sense of uniqueness.

An island bench with a second sink was at the top of their kitchen wish list, as was an Innotech soft-close drawer system to help achieve the desire for functionality.

And it's the combination of day-to-day usefulness with innovative style that really makes this kitchen a winner. Fresh and inviting, the space stands out from the crowd with its inviting French Provincial style and many glass display cabinets.

Granite benchtops and Tesrol two-pack doors are just a couple of the impressive design elements incorporated into the area.

From a practical standpoint, the owners are able to take care of all their cooking needs with ease. There's room for a couple to move about without colliding and there's plenty of bench space to make food preparation a breeze. And with ample storage options on offer, there's no excuse not to keep the area clean and uncluttered.

Better Bathrooms and Kitchens is a multi-award-winning company with a dedicated team of highly professional tradespeople. With a reputation for quality craftsmanship and friendly service, the company was at the top of the list for these homeowners and it's no surprise that they're thrilled with the result.

This kitchen is special because it has everything it needs to attract attention. It's more than just another area of the home; it's a unique space with its own individual style. From the beautiful cabinetry to the distinctive colouring, with the red fittings and fixtures adding a twist to the modern black-and-white motif, this kitchen rises head and shoulders above the competition.
